

Cisco, Intel and Microsoft have launched “The Assessment and Teaching of 21st Century Skills” Project (2010) which lists ten skills essential to economic and social success in the 21st century.

Ways of Thinking

1. Creativity and innovation
2. Critical thinking, problem solving, decision making
3. Learning to learn, metacognition

Ways of Working

4. Communication
5. Collaboration (teamwork)

Tools for Working

6. Information literacy
7. Information and Communications Technology (ICT) literacy

Living in the World

8. Citizenship—local and global
9. Life and career
10. Personal and social responsibility—including cultural awareness and competence

From Michael Peters, Tina Besley, Daniel Araya (eds). New Development Paradigm: Education, Knowledge Economy and Digital Futures. (New York: Peter Lang, 2014), p. 182